EXFILE. CLIMATE Europe is world's fastest warming continent: climate report

Europe should brace for more deadly heatwaves driven by climate change, said a sweeping report on Monday, noting the world's fastest-warming continent was some 2.3 degrees Celsius hotter last year than in pre-industrial times

Norway proposal to extend female quotas

Gender

contribute to innovation...

OSLO: Norway's government said on Monday it planned to increase gender equality in the business world by extending quotas for the number of women on boards to 20,000 large and medium-size companies by 2028.

A pioneer in the field, the Scandinavian country has since 2004 required the boards of directors of state-owned companies to be made up of at least 40% women, or face closure. The same rule has since 2008 applied to the biggest companies listed on stock t h e exchange. Jan Christian Likewise, at least Vestre, Trade and 40% of board direc-Industry Minister tors must be men.

The centre-left government, supported by the main employers' union NHO and workers' union LO, on Monday said it aimed to introduce similar regulations for large and medium-size companies, progressively over the years, based on sales and number of employees. "Norway is the first country in the world to take this step," Trade and Industry Minister Jan Christian Vestre said, unveiling details of the plans already announced in principle in December.

Under the criteria outlined for 2024—affecting companies with annual sales of at least 100 million kroner or $9.4 million —some 8,200 companies would be affected next year. The sales and number > of employees will gradually be lowered until 2028, by which time some 20,000 companies would be affected.

Women currently hold only around 20% of board positions in Norway, with the progression deemed slow considering the number was 15% around 20 years ago. "In 2023, we still have too big a gap on Norwegian boards," Vestre said.

Gender equality and diversity can contribute to "more innovation, a better professional environment, smarter decisions and more added value", he stressed.

Rushdie gets German prize

LITERATURE

Writer Salman Rushdie has been awarded a prestigious German prize for his literary work and for his resolve and positive attitude in the face of constant danger, the prize organisers said on Monday. The Peace Prize of the German Book Trade said the author would receive the award in Frankfurt on October 22. Rushdie's writing "combines narrative vision with constant literary innovation, humor and wisdom," the jury said.
